

5

Abstract of the Disclosure

An apparatus adding one new component and replacing four outdated parts with enhanced components, which have characteristics that efficiently transfer and recycle sound vibrations, have correct wood grain direction for optimal

10 sound flow, and are designed with "lower impendence to movement characteristics", and if and when this apparatus is added to a violin it will resonate longer, project more sound frequencies further, produce a stronger response, and require half the bowing effort.

15